SPECIALIST NURSING STANDARDS AND COMPETENCIES
FOREWORD
The Drug and Alcohol Nurses of Australasia Inc (DANA) is the peak nursing body representing drug and alcohol nurses across Australia and New Zealand. DANA recognises that all nurses need the basic knowledge and skills to assess, identify and respond to people whose health and wellbeing is affected by drug and alcohol use. However, the specialist drug and alcohol nurse is also required to have comprehensive leadership, knowledge and skills of the field. DANA has invested in the development, promotion and support of this specialty over the last three decades, and is committed to ensuring that this specialist workforce is well able to deliver safe, evidence based comprehensive nursing care to people adversely affected by drug and alcohol issues.

DANA MISSION STATEMENT
DANA is the peak nursing organisation in Australasia providing leadership to nurses and midwives with a professional interest in Alcohol, Tobacco and Other Drugs (ATOD) issues. We aim for excellence and the ongoing improvement of quality care in nursing in all practice contexts.

DANA PHILOSOPHY AND VALUES
As the peak alcohol and other drug specialist nursing organisation, DANA provides leadership to nurses and midwives with a professional interest in Alcohol, Tobacco and Other Drugs (ATOD) issues. DANA endeavours to enhance the capacity of ATOD specialist nurses to respond effectively to ATOD use in a culturally sensitive manner. We provide a mechanism for professional development and support for our members. DANA provides support and direction to key stakeholders, service providers and educational institutions on ATOD use and related policies and practices.

DANA STANDARDS EXPERT REFERENCE GROUP
The DANA Standards Expert Reference Group (SERG) comprises DANA members from Australia and New Zealand, and was formed to oversee this trans-Tasman work. Acknowledging cultural and other contextual differences between our two countries, discussions were held about, and agreement undertaken to, having a congruent Australian and New Zealand specialty drug and alcohol nursing framework. The need for two separate but congruent frameworks became evident due to differing cultural requirements, domains of nursing standards, competencies and practice, health workforce organisational structures and particular of the nursing and midwifery councils of both nations. DANA is the peak nursing body under which these Australian and New Zealand specialist standards and competencies are now auspiced.

DANA nurses continued commitment to quality care is evident by the many contributions to this project, through focus groups, workshops and teleconference meetings. While not all have been individually named below, their input is equally appreciated. In particular, DANA wishes to thank the following for their contribution: Peter Athanasos, Dr Janette Curtis, Kt Harvey and Lynda Scott. In addition, DANA would like to formally acknowledge and thank Reckitt Benckiser and Drug and Alcohol Services of South Australia (DASSA) in Australia, and Matua Raki National Addiction Workforce Development Centre in New Zealand for supporting and funding the development the Australian and New Zealand documents. Both documents have drawn on the previous contributions of Drug and Alcohol Services of South Australia (DASSA) ATOD Specialist Nursing Standards document (2007).

INTRODUCTION
The problems associated with the consumption of drugs and alcohol, including tobacco, pharmaceuticals and illicit substances, is widespread and adversely affects people from all ages and socio-economic and cultural backgrounds. People can experience short or long-term general health, mental health and social problems associated with drug and alcohol use. Drug and alcohol problems can vary according to people’s particular health status, reasons for use, situations (context), patterns and choices of substances. There is no area of health care delivery or nursing practice in which drug and alcohol related health issues do not impact.

The Drug and Alcohol Nurses of Australasia (DANA) is the peak professional nursing body representing drug and alcohol nurses across Australia and New Zealand. This document presents DANA and the drug and alcohol specialist nursing role, model and contexts of practice; and the rationale and development of these DANA Specialist Drug and Alcohol Nursing Standards and Competencies.

DRUG AND ALCOHOL NURSES OF AUSTRALASIA (DANA)
The Drug and Alcohol Nurses of Australasia (DANA) is the peak nursing body representing drug and alcohol specialist nurses across Australia and New Zealand. DANA recognises that all nurses, wherever they practice, require the basic knowledge and skills to assess, identify and respond to people whose health is acutely or otherwise affected by drug and alcohol use. The specialist drug and alcohol nurse is required to provide specialised leadership, expert knowledge and nursing skills to assess, identify and respond to complex problems of individuals and families affected by drug and alcohol related health conditions, including dependence and mental and/or physical health comorbidities...

Over the last three decades DANA has invested strongly in the development, promotion and support of this Specialty. DANA remains committed to ensuring that as essential members of the nursing workforce, drug and alcohol specialist nurses can deliver safe, evidence based nursing care to people adversely affected by their drug and alcohol use.

DANA MISSION STATEMENT
DANA is the peak nursing organisation in Australasia providing leadership to nurses and midwives with a professional interest in drug and alcohol issues. We aim for excellence and the ongoing improvement of quality care in nursing in all practice contexts.

PHILOSOPHY AND VALUES
As the peak alcohol and other drug specialist nursing organisation, DANA provides leadership to nurses and midwives with a professional interest in Drug and Alcohol issues. DANA endeavours to enhance the capacity of drug and alcohol specialist nurses to respond effectively to people with drug and alcohol problems in a culturally sensitive manner. We provide a mechanism for professional development and support for our members. DANA provides support and direction to key stakeholders, service providers and educational institutions on drug and alcohol issues and related policies and practices.

THE DRUG AND ALCOHOL SPECIALIST NURSING MODEL
This model encompasses the continuum of health across the spectrums of primary and secondary prevention, early intervention and treatment in relation to the management of disorders associated with drug and alcohol use. The model also includes assessment and relevant interventions required by people with concomitant general health and/or mental health problems (comorbidities). In addition, this specialist nursing role includes public health and health promotion strategies regarding drug and alcohol use in the wider community through to clinical practices that include harm reduction, early intervention and intensive therapeutic intervention and support.

RATIONALE FOR DEVELOPING STANDARDS AND COMPETENCIES FOR DRUG AND ALCOHOL SPECIALIST NURSING CARE
The Australian government and communities hold nurses and midwives fully accountable for their practice. Under legislation the national nursing registering authority (AHPRA) is responsible for monitoring and ensuring that the public receives safe and professional nursing care. This requires nurses to meet agreed standards of practice. If nursing performance is unprofessional, unsafe or illegal the government has in place a process by which the community can contact the national; nursing and midwifery registering authority who will then refer to the relevant standards for that nurse so as to assess whether these have or have not been met. Operationally defining “Standards for Practice” is one of the most challenging and essential components in this accountability paradigm.

As the peak professional drug and alcohol specialist nursing body for Australia and New Zealand, DANA is committed to best practice and development, validation and implementation of standards and competencies for Drug and Alcohol Specialist nurses. In 2009 DANA negotiated with Drug and Alcohol Service of South Australia (DASSA) Nursing Service to use the DASSA Specialist Nursing Standards (Attachment 1) as the basis for developing and validating the DANA Specialist Nursing Standards.

TERMINOLOGY
The DANA Specialist Nursing Standards uses an incremental model to inform the increasingly complex scope and depth of expertise required of specialist drug and alcohol nurses. These levels are termed Foundation, Specialist and Advanced Specialist.

Foundation has been selected, rather than ‘beginner’ or ‘novice’, to denote the standards required of a registered nurse new to the field. This recognises that this nurse may not yet have acquired all of the specialist drug and alcohol qualifications, knowledge and skills on entry to the field. It is recognised that they have a range of other qualifications, knowledge and expertise from which to build on, and that their previous knowledge and experience can further enrich the field.

Specialist denotes the standards required of a registered nurse who has already been working in the field, and has acquired the necessary specialist drug and alcohol qualifications, knowledge and skills that support their particular scope and depth of practice.

Advanced Specialist denotes the standards required of a registered nurse who has already been working in the field, and has acquired all of necessary advanced specialist drug and alcohol qualifications, knowledge and skills that support their particular scope and depth of practice. This is considered to be the basis on which the Drug and Alcohol Nurse Practitioner Standards will be built from in the near future.

GLOSSARY OF LANGUAGE AND CONCEPTS

The following terms are preferred by this speciality in Australia:

- Drug and Alcohol Dependence
- Drug and Alcohol Nurse
- Drug and Alcohol Nursing

Best Practice is having an understanding of the current reliable literature and using clinical judgement that informs the translation of knowledge into practice. For the purposes of this document, this includes ‘Evidence Based Practice’.

Comorbidity is where co-existing drug and alcohol, mental health and/or physical problems are present. This is sometimes also referred to as ‘dual diagnosis’.

Competency refers to the combination of skills, knowledge, attitudes, values and abilities that underpin effective and/or superior performance in a professional area (ANMC, 2006).

Competent refers to the person having competence across all the domains of competencies applicable to the clinician, at a standard that is judged to be appropriate for the level of nurse being assessed (ANMC, 2006).

Culture can be defined as the particular history, knowledge, customs, rituals, beliefs, and social behaviours of a group of specific people or society. This acknowledges the diversity of peoples according to their age, family structure, gender, role, religion, social grouping, race etc. http://oxforddictionaries.com/definition/culture.

Cultural awareness requires personal reflection on one’s own cultural identity, history, values, beliefs, understanding, experiences and lifestyle. It is essential that nurses examine how these influence their individual attitudes, beliefs and behaviours towards people from other cultures. Being culturally aware requires the recognition that people from other backgrounds to the person providing care or service have their own cultural identity, history, values, beliefs, experiences and lifestyles which are legitimate. It is not about becoming an ‘expert’ in all cultures, but rather appreciating and accepting people’s differences and finding how best to provide them with respectful professional services that respond to their cultural needs and concerns. Cultural awareness of Indigenous peoples in particular is also recognising that, as first Nation peoples, their traditions, practices and cultural values continue to evolve.

Cultural safety refers to the individual, family or community feeling and being acknowledged and respected for their culture and its manifestations.

Ethics refers to ‘the nursing profession’s commitment to respect, promote, protect and uphold the fundamental rights of people who are both the recipients and providers of nursing and health care’ and ‘is supported by, and should be read in conjunction with, the Code of Conduct for Nurses in Australia and the Australian Nursing and Midwifery Council National Competency Standards for the Registered Nurse, National Competency Standards for the Enrolled Nurse and National Competency Standards for the Nurse Practitioner’. Please refer to: http://www.nursingmidwiferyboard.gov.au/Search.aspx?q=ethics.

Legislation refers to the relevant laws of each state and territory within Australia. This includes the particular legislation relevant to specialist Drug and Alcohol nursing practice.

Partnerships refer to relationships and communication between members of the clinical interdisciplinary team within and across services (government and non-government) and members of the community.

Standard refers to a desired and achievable level of performance against which a nurse or midwife’s performance can be compared (ANMC 2006).
